HOW TO USE THESE ANSWERS EFFECTIVELY

Simply copying answers from a list may solve the puzzle, but to truly benefit, consider the story’s context. For instance, the clue "Tom’s wife’s fate" might be answered as "disappeared" or "killed" – she goes to the swamp and never returns. Understanding that she attempted to bargain with the devil and was punished adds depth to your reading. Similarly, "the devil’s tree" is not just any tree—it is the one where he keeps his accounts, symbolizing the irreversibility of sin.

When you encounter an answer like "hypocrite," think about Tom’s behavior: he carries a Bible, prays loudly, but continues to cheat his neighbors. The crossword becomes a lens for character analysis. Teachers often design puzzles that reward such critical thinking. So, while you may find the answer "hypocrite" in our list, remember how Irving uses religious hypocrisy to critique society.

Tips for Solving "The Devil and Tom Walker" Crosswords

1. Read the story first. Even a summary will refresh your memory about key names and events. Many clues are directly from the text.
2. Look for repeated words. "Old Scratch," "Kidd," "Deacon," "usurer," "swamp," "horse," "Bible," "cloven hoof" — these appear in almost every puzzle.
3. Use word lengths. If a clue is "Tom’s first name (4 letters)" – it is "Tom" (actually three letters, but sometimes "Thomas" is not used; check the grid. Usually "Tom" is three letters, but if they want four, it might be "Toma"? No. In the story, his full name is just Tom Walker. So a four-letter answer might be "Tame" or "John"? Unlikely. Actually, be cautious: a puzzle might ask for "Tom’s wife (7 letters)" – "Mrs. Tom" not possible. Better to rely on the specific puzzle.)

4. Don’t forget the author. "Washington Irving" appears often, sometimes as "Irving" or "W. Irving."
5. Remember the moral. Clues like "The lesson of the story (____)" – answer: "Greed leads to destruction" or "Faustian bargain" – but crossword answers need to be single words or short phrases. Typically "morality" or "warning."
